Society has gone Democratic, that is, it all went to the Democratic Convention last week.

"Are you going to the convention?" "Have you been to the convention?" I am just dying to go to the convention," and a thousand and one similar questions-with the word C-O-N-V-E-N-T-I-O-N predominating, is all one can hear when two or more women meet. The ever-interesting topic of "who will be invited this week to the functions given by the Board of Lady Managers at the World's Fair," or "the receptions and luncheons given by Mrs. Norman E. Mack, hostess of the New York building." wers all but forgotten, for the truth of the matter is, the Board of Lady Managers and all the hostesses of the State buildings at the World's Fair were not at home, and if they had remained at home and given ever so swell a function, they would have had to look at themselves in the mirror for company, for all society went raving mad over the convention. Even Doctor Lewald, the German Commissioner, was forgotten for the

The hostesses in the City of States at the Fair had planned to give receptions and luncheons to the delegates from their respective States, provided they could get the "roaring lions" into their guilded cages. Not being able to do' this they bearded the lions in their den by going to the convention to hear them roar. It was a case of Mohammed going to the mountain.

outnumbered the men. They also outdid the men in applause. They applauded one and all with equal fervor. The men silently, or with sorrowful protest, submitted to the inevitable woman of the convention, gave up their seats to them, and assisted them in standing on the backs of chairs that they might see above the heads of the howling mass of humanity. Very gallant were the men of the convention, very inconsiderate were the women of the con-

"See what we are coming to," sighed an old convention veteran, as he waved his hand toward a screaming crowd of women. "In a short time they will outnumber us at the polls and stuff the ballot

"Is this the way they select a nomine at a national convention?" asked a club woman. Upon being assured that it was, she said:

"Well, I don't think very much of their Why, our club could do it in one-half the time. We elect our officer in an afternoon." The men who heard her smiled and looked wise.

"Why don't some one do something? Why all this yelling? They are delaying and wasting time. If I was chairman, bet I would have order. I would call the sergeant-at-arms and have the noisy ones removed. Then I would nominate my candidate," continued the woman of clubs, "The idea of men daring to criticise women's methods of electing officers after this badly managed affair."

Mrs. Daniel Manning, president of the Board of Lady Managers of the World's Fair; Mrs. Charles Mercer Hall, daughter of Judge Alton B. Parker; Mrs. Norman E. Mack, wife of National Committeeman Mack; Miss McGraw, sister of John T. McGraw, National Committeeman from West Virginia; Mrs. T. K. Niedringhaus, Mrs. Philip N. Moore, Mrs. Perry Belmont York, Mrs. B. A. Enloe of Tennessee, Mrs. Martin W. Littleton and a number of other prominent society women and hostesses of the World's Fair, and the wives and laughters of many of the delegates have attended every session of the convention.

The truth of the matter is, there were no social functions last week. Society went a visiting down to the Coliseum, and society folk seemed glad of the opportuto throw off the yoke of cor allty for a week and become thoroughly

Society donned its gala dress and flaunted its beauty in the face of the stern old politicians, but the politicians never ed to the right or left, but straigh ahead on the political way, arguing and debating the political issues nearest their heart

The politicians are receiving nice little cream, pink and blue envelopes containing invitations to dine and to allow fair society to repay the entertainment roar good-naturedly in many a cage if

For the women, this little nearness to men of politics, and things political, has been as the honey of flowers to the bees. MISCELLANEOUS.
